Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, United States, 2015. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English. Brand new Book. You need to sell your house. So you paint the front door and clean out the garage. You put an ad in the local paper, build a website and hold an open house but you don't get any buyers. Eventually you call that "Top Agent" who has been pestering you to list your home in the local MLS. The commission is a lot of money but you rationalize the thousands spent will be offset by the top dollar the agent says you will get for the house. Once you sign the agent's unbreakable listing contract you naturally assume the "Top Agent" will handle everything. Really? Think again. The chapters are in sequential order reflecting the phases of the transaction: Prelisting (chapters 1-6). Agent-selection (chapters 7-9). Listing (chapters 10-20). Selling (chapters 21-27). Negotiating (chapters 28-32). Under-contract (chapters 33-36). Closing (chapters 37-39). Filing Complaints (chapters 40-42). The book does not delve into felonious crimes like loan or title fraud. It highlights the personalities, chicanery and incompetence of the repeat offenders who escape justice and remain selling for years. The book makes good study for agents pursuing a noble and rewarding career helping people buy...
